

NEWS DETAILS

CME on 'Training on Haemovigilance' organized at GMCH

5/19/2013 12:57:23 AM

ET Plus Report

Jammu, May 10: Post Graduate (PG) Department of Blood Transfusion Medicine, Government Medical College (GMC) Jammu today organized a one day CME on Training on Haemovigilance Programme of India in the College Auditorium. The programme was organized in collaboration with National Institute of Biological (NIB) New Delhi IPC, JKSAACS & ISBTI. The national and international repute delegates and experts deliberated upon the concept of Haemovigilance programme of India. At the onset Dr Vijay Sawhney, HOD Blood Transfusion Medicine, Government Medical College Jammu presented welcome address in which he elaborated the various measures of Haemovigilance being adopted in the department. Dr Shashi Gupta, Principal and Dean, Govt. Medical College and associated hospitals Jammu in her inaugural speech highlighted the importance of Haemovigilance for blood safety. She also underlined that such programmes are of greater significance in further spreading the latest know how about a topic. In his introductory speech Dr Surinder Singh, Director National Institute of Biological (NIB) New Delhi who is the son of the soil told that a centralized Haemovigilance programme to ensure patient safety has been launched for the first time in the country on 10th December 2012 in 90 medical colleges in the first phase Govt Medical College Jammu us one if these colleges.

National Institute of Biological, Noida, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare Government of India will be the National Coordinating centre for Haemovigilance.

Dr Akanksha Bisht, Member Secretary, Haemovigilance Programme demonstrated the latest Haemovigilance software and this demonstration was followed by Panel discussion on Haemovigilance programme of India International Haemovigilance network in which Dr T R Raina, Secretary General ISBTI, Member National Advisory Committee Haemovigilance Programme of India was the moderator.

A large number of delegates comprising of Blood providers, Blood users doctors, Postgraduates, Technicians, Nurses and officers of administration section from Govt. Medical College and Associated Hospitals and various districts of Jammu Province attended this CME. In the end, Dr Meena Sidhu, Assistant Professor, Blood Transfusion Medicine GMC, Jammu presented vote of thanks.